GLADIOLUS BULBS

THE PERRIN GARDENS

PORTLAND, OREGON

For over 50 years Lysol has been used as a personal antiseptic and household disinfectant. Lehn & Fink laboratories, by extensive and continuous research, certify the purity of Lysol and seek new uses for the product in the above mentioned fields.

The use of Lysol for the elimination of thrips on gladiolus bulbs is foreign to our own field of research and therefore we are unable to furnish verified results from our own laboratories. However, in response to many requests for information on this use of Lysol we print the following letter received from C. G. Young, Secretary, National Gladiolus Society.

"LEHN & FINK PRODUCTS CORPORATION,
Bloomfield, New Jersey.

Gentlemen:

"Late in 1938 I received a bulletin from you dealing with the use of Lysol as a dip for the elimination of thrips from gladiolus bulbs at planting time. I used Lysol for my Spring 1939 planting. The amount of bulbs treated with Lysol solution was sufficient to plant six acres.

"I found that Lysol positively eliminated all thrips on the bulbs treated.

"Also I discovered that this treatment was of great benefit in stimulating root growth in dormant bulbs. To my amazement, the dormant bulbs of such notoriously hard starters as Betty Nuthall, etc., showed pronounced root growth in 3 days following dipping.

"Treatment which I recommend is as follows:

"Mix 4 teaspoonfuls of Lysol to 1 gallon of water. Soak bulbs in this solution for 6 hours.

"For breaking down shells on bulblets, soak in above solution for 16 hours or more according to toughness.

"Bulbs may be dipped and left for as long as three weeks before planting. Thus an efficient method of planting may be adopted by dipping all bulbs at one time.

"Dipping solution left for more than one week should be replaced.

"The total cost of Lysol which I used in dipping bulbs for a six acre planting amounted to only $3.20,—an insignificant sum for the value received.

"There are many advantages in using Lysol solution for the elimination of thrips instead of the bichloride of mercury commonly recommended:

ADVANTAGES OF LYSOL OVER BICHLORIDE OF MERCURY

"Lysol solution may be used for several dips without adding additional amounts of Lysol. This is not true of bichloride of mercury.

"Lysol solution may be placed in any type of container. Bichloride of mercury cannot be placed in a metal container.

"Lysol solution does not retard blooming. Bichloride of mercury may delay blooming for as much as two weeks.

"Lysol is not damaging to bulbs. Bichloride of mercury is damaging to split jumbo bulbs, etc.

"Furthermore Lysol solution is extremely easy to prepare and also will not remove pencil marks on labels of soaking bulbs.

"I am sure that Lysol will definitely solve gladiolus growers' problems and will have the added effect of encouraging many to again enter this field of endeavor.

"As Secretary of the National Gladiolus Society, I feel duty bound to strongly urge all growers, both professional and amateur, to use Lysol. My opinions are the result of my own personal experiments and are recommended in the hope that growers will cooperate by using this successful method of thrip elimination.

Signed: C. G. YOUNG, Secretary National Gladiolus Society."
